I. Our Corporate Governance Understanding

We at DWS take our fiduciary duty to our client investors very seriously and act in their sole interest.

We believe that good Corporate Governance is an important source of higher relative (shareholder) returns on equity and fixed income investments in the long-term. This builds on our expertise gained over more than 20 years of experience as responsible investors and is based on relevant national and international legal frameworks (e.g., German Corporate Governance Code, International Corporate Governance Network (ICGN) Global Corporate Governance Principles, G20/OECD Principles of Corporate Governance) as well as national and international best practices.

As a thought leader in global governance matters, we also actively participate in relevant global working groups and regularly attend relevant conferences, representing the investor perspective and driving the developments in this area forward.

We are part of the Coalition for Environmentally Responsible Economies Investor Network on Climate Risk and Sustainability (Ceres) and apply their guidance on environmental, social and governance issues ("ESG") when evaluating shareholder proposals. Furthermore, we vote in line with our conviction that responsible environmental and social practices ensure sustainable success of companies also by seeking to assess the compliance of companies with relevant international frameworks (i.e. the set of the ten core values of UN Global Compact, concerning human rights, labor standards, the environment and business ethics).

II. Our Core Governance Values and Expectations

The integration of environmental, social and good corporate governance factors in a company strategy is a key factor to the ability of an organization to create value over time. For us, a sound Corporate Governance centers on a clearly defined and stress-resilient business model with the corresponding corporate structure in place.

We strongly believe that integrating ESG criteria into our investment process contributes to a better understanding of the environment in which companies are operating. It enables us to identify risks and opportunities that traditional financial analysis might not reveal. Our aim is to identify and assess material ESG criteria that may impact the value of our investments in order to achieve the best possible risk adjusted investment returns for our clients.

Our ESG integration and engagement activities are guided among others by following international standards: UN supported Principles for Responsible Investment (PRI), UN Global Compact, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Corporations, Cluster Munitions Convention, the CERES Roadmap for Sustainability, The CERES Blueprint for Sustainable Investing, IIRC integrated Reporting Framework. Companies that seriously contravene internationally recognized E, S or G principles will be subject to heightened scrutiny.

Our Corporate Governance understanding is based on four core values:

- _ adequate board composition,
- _ comprehensible and ambitious executive remuneration,
- _ transparency on auditors and
- _ appropriate treatment of shareholder proposals, which are reflected in the following governance expectations together with our overarching awareness for relevant ESG-matters:

Board Composition:

We acknowledge locally differing board structures, especially dualistic and monistic boards. However, we regard a clearly separated balance of powers by a distinction of control (supervisory board) and management (executive board) as superior. In monistic board structures this has to be reflected in a separation of CEO and Chairperson as well as strong, committed and independent non-executive directors.

Where one person assumes a combined CEO/Chairperson role, a qualified and strong Lead Independent Director (LID) has to ensure the proper work of the board and the communication with investors. We will engage with the corresponding LIDs as to be able to better understand how the balance of powers is ensured in such preferred structures.

We expect executive and non-executive directors to be chosen by their qualifications, experiences and knowledge. Their expertise and independence shall be recognizable and enable them to challenge management.

We have a holistic understanding of diversity that encompasses age, gender, qualification, internationalization, independence, sector experience and tenure. These factors should reflect the structure and nature of the company and should enable the boards to work more efficiently and make better decisions. Boards should ensure a balance in representation and inclusiveness in order to allow broad perspectives to drive value in different scenarios. Gender diversity should provide for a more dynamic, well rounded Board of Directors, bringing unique perspectives, experience, talents and expertise. Going forward, we expect our companies to incorporate gender diversity into their composition and refreshment processes, which is critical to effective corporate governance. Furthermore, as to ensure reasonable board refreshment and succession planning, an adequate age range should ensure a balance between experience and new perspectives. We also welcome any developments that aim to achieve a better gender balance; however, for us, qualification remains the decisive factor that needs to be assured for a sound board. Although we believe that the Board is best positioned to assure this factor by assessing the professional background and experiences of the individual members, we would like our investees to provide us with as much transparency as possible. We will continue further engaging with our investees and monitor their progress in achieving the appropriate level of diversity in their boards.

Furthermore, the board should disclose its mechanisms on how board competencies and candidates are identified (e.g. via a competency matrix and qualification profiles).

Having a majority of independent members on the board and in the key committees on the boards is especially important for us to establish an appropriate board culture and to ensure objective-driven decision-making and challenging discussions. The necessity for the absence of any personal advantages and conflicts of interests of any board member is self-evident. Adequate measures and processes need to be set-up to identify, resolve and disclose conflicts of interests and related party transactions, e.g. a standing committee fully comprised of independent members that conducts regular assessments and is supported by external auditors.

We expect companies to clearly indicate which candidates and board members are considered independent. Additionally, we assess the independence of boards and their members also by analyzing the tenure of the individual members. We value a balance between an extensive experience within the company and fresh perspectives and welcome efforts by companies who strive to accomplish that.

However, if the majority of the board is considered not independent, we will consider voting against the candidates who cause it. Finally yet importantly, a sound balanced structure of board tenure should also enable reasonable board refreshment and succession planning.

As transparency plays a major role in assessing the governance quality and the board effectiveness and efficiency, we expect companies to disclose the individual attendance of board and committee members. We recommend using a table as shown below:

NAME OF BOARD MEMBER	Board (# meetings attended/total #)	Committee 1	Committee 2	Committee 3	Overall
Board Member 1*	8/8 (100%)	4/4 (100%)	-	2/2 (100%)	14/14 (100%)
Board Member 2	7/8 (87.5%)	4/4 (100%)	3/4 (75%)	-	14/16 (87.5%)

* indicates independent board member

For us as long-term oriented investors who act as fiduciary for our clients, it is important to understand a board's culture and how it evaluates its effectiveness and efficiency. We therefore expect companies to annually report on its self-assessments and on assessments conducted externally. We are keen to understand the processes and structures the board has implemented to ensure objective-driven discussions, avoid group-think, establish a meaningful information architecture and secure the right allocation of qualifications and experiences in the committees.

As a responsible, long-term oriented investor, ESG matters have become increasingly important for us and the ESG analysis forms integral part of our investment process. The ESG performance assessment directly influences voting decisions on elections and discharges of the board of directors. Companies that seriously contravene with internationally recognized E, S or G principles (e.g. the UN Global Compact Principles and OECD Guidelines for Multinationals) will be subject to heightened scrutiny.

Executive Remuneration:

We expect appropriate, comprehensible management compensation packages that include transparent and sustainable remuneration policies, reasonable key performance criteria and relevant peer group comparisons. We also seek ex-ante transparency on qualitative and quantitative key performance indicators (incl. non-financial KPIs). We regard relevant and adequate bonus-malus mechanisms (including claw-backs) and reasonable deferral periods for executives as key elements of a sustainable, long-term oriented compensation structure.

A rigorous remuneration system should achieve the alignment of the interests of shareholders and management. To underline the importance of such alignment we expect the board to regularly (at least every four years) allow the shareholders to vote on the remuneration system.

Auditors:

We place high value on the quality and the independence of the auditor. A strong degree of transparency regarding the audit fees, the balance between audit and non-audit fees, the tenure of the audit firm and the lead audit partner is key for us to assess whether ratifications for audit firms are deemed responsibly.

Shareholder Rights and Proposals:

As prerogative for us, we strongly support the 'one-share-one-vote'-principle and we regard the existence or creation of different share classes as a measure that denies the equal treatment of shareholders. The adequate treatment of (minority) shareholder's interests and proposals needs to be ensured. We are supportive of shareholder proposals that request for stronger transparency and enhance shareholder rights.

III. Our Governance Engagement Approach

The sound alignment of the interests of the companies' boards of directors with those of shareholders through effective governance measures and sound structures should also preserve and enhance the company value and are crucial to build confidence among investors.

Furthermore, we believe that management should pursue regular active engagement with all relevant stakeholders to benefit from alternative perspectives. As a responsible investor, we are always willing to share our expectations on matters of corporate governance in an on-going and constructive dialogue with executive and non-executive directors<sup>1</sup>.

There are various ways in which we engage with our investee companies depending on the company itself, the sector and the issue in question. However, in cases where we identify gaps between our expectations regarding corporate governance and the company's attitude towards it, we will start a direct engagement process with the company representatives and management board. We regard active engagement as an essential part of our commitment to supporting good corporate governance. Our engagement approach follows a detailed step-by-step escalation that commences with our annual letter to our investee companies, which are part of our Proxy Voting Watchlist<sup>2</sup>. In the letter, we inform them about our governance expectations and updated Corporate Governance and Proxy Voting Policy. This is then in some cases followed by pro-active engagements by companies who approach us. During the regular management meetings, we also raise governance issues. The next step is the call for extraordinary meetings with executive management and the supervisory board Chairperson. Subsequently, we send letters to members of both boards. Our direct participation in annual general meetings combined with a speech addressing shareholders and boards publicly is already a very extensive means. When appropriate we may also decide to file shareholder proposals. As a last measure, we will vote accordingly and vote against management proposals, in line with our Proxy Voting Guidelines outlined later in this document.

IV. Proxy Voting Framework

As a responsible investor and a fiduciary, we are obliged also to exercise our clients' equity<sup>3</sup> voting rights in their best interest. This is achieved by our dedicated uniform and transparent proxy voting process that is approved by KPMG and centers on our detailed expectations and Proxy Voting Guidelines that are laid out in the following section (V.).

The primary responsibility for the conduct of company dialogues and the exercise of our Corporate Governance and Proxy Voting Policy lies with the staff of DWS Investment GmbH's Chief Investment Office in Frankfurt, Germany. All relevant items on the agenda of shareholder meetings of companies, which are part of our Proxy Voting Watchlist, are examined individually and, where necessary, we decide on issues on a case-by-case basis in the interest of our clients. We endeavour to vote across all markets where feasible and if the available voting infrastructure of each market so permits. The Proxy Voting Guidelines expressed in this document shall apply to our investees, which are part of our Proxy Voting Watchlist, globally.

Reflecting our fiduciary duty to our clients, the exercise of our voting rights is made fully independent from any views or interests of our principal shareholder Deutsche Bank AG. For agenda items not covered in the Proxy Voting Guidelines, voting decisions of particular significance for a company (e.g., substantial transactions like mergers and acquisitions) and cases where the responsible portfolio manager or analyst proposes a recommendation different from our standard Corporate Governance and Proxy Voting Policy, our Proxy Voting Group is the ultimate decision-making body. This group is composed of senior managers from all relevant areas to ensure an effective, timely, and consistent voting process.

If we hold a significant position and decide to vote against a management proposal, we may inform the company in advance. We will then vote our shares in person or entrust a proxy voting agent with a clear mandate. The vote will be published in the appropriate form after the shareholders' meeting on our websites, depending on the corresponding legal entity (<https://dws.com/solutions/esg/corporate-governance/>) and unless specified otherwise, we shall apply the Proxy Voting Guidelines laid out in this document.

<sup>2</sup> Watchlist: includes a relevant part of our holdings, screened based on: a) percentage of assets under management and percentage of position in the company b) relevant ESG ratings c) relevant market regulatory requirements, which entail voting for all companies held in a given market (e.g. Germany and Spain).

<sup>3</sup> For our debt investments and related bondholder meetings, a dedicated and separate process is set-up and owned by the Fixed Income platform in order to avoid any potential for conflicts of interests.

V. Proxy Voting Guidelines

1. Board-related Agenda Items

Board structures differ depending on the jurisdiction, in which companies operate. The most prevalent ones are the unitary board structure composed of both executive and non-executive directors, and the two-tier board structure comprising an executive management board as well as a non-executive supervisory board.

The non-executive members of the boards should be sufficiently and objectively independent; i.e. they should be able to exercise their judgment independently and free from external influence. The board (respectively the supervisory board) should include a sufficient number of independent non-executive directors, thereby being majority independent. Non-executive directors are considered independent if they have no commercial or personal ties to the company and its management constituting a conflict of interest. Factors that deny or can at least compromise the independence of non-executive directors include:

- _ Employment by the company within the last 5 years (this includes also former executive directors);
- _ Receipt of substantial payments from the company within the last 5 years that are unrelated to his / her board activities (subject to availability of information);
- _ Ownership or representation of a cumulative 10% or more of the equity capital or voting rights (i.e., controlling stockholder). This may be aggregated if voting power is distributed among more than one member of a defined group (e.g., family members who collectively own more than 10%);
- _ Board membership for more than 10 years (i.e., from year 11 onwards);
- _ Representation of a government, ministry, state, municipality or city that holds 10% or more of the equity capital or voting rights.
- _ Representation of a significant business partner.

In the different markets, some of the factors for independence will outweigh others, depending on the board/company structure, legal system and local regulatory disclosure requirements, in particular on boards where the board members are elected on an annual basis. In those cases, we will engage with the companies correspondingly and analyze on a CASE-BY-CASE basis.

In its definition of board independence, DWS will also relate to the best practice rules for corporate governance in a respective country (e.g. Common Sense Principles of Corporate Governance in the US). If no such practices are defined, or in case that the respective practices fall short of the standards set by the ICGN, DWS shall refer to the definition provided by ICGN as the minimum standard: "Every company should make substantive disclosures as to its definition of independence and its determination as to whether each member of its board is independent". (<http://www.icgn.org/best-practice.php>).

1.1. Appointment or Reappointment of Directors

We will generally vote AGAINST, if one of the following applies:

- 1.1.1. The candidate is not sufficiently qualified or unsuitable for the position.
- 1.1.2. No comprehensive disclosure on the qualification and suitability of the candidate has been provided in a timely manner.
- 1.1.3. The election of a candidate leads to an insufficient qualification structure of the board.
- 1.1.4. Director elections are carried out on a block basis and the qualification or suitability of at least one of the candidates is called into question, except where it is market practice to vote on a block basis
- 1.1.5. The discharge is called into question, if:
  - _ There are clear concerns over questionable finances or restatements of accounting figures.
  - _ There have been questionable transactions with conflicts of interest.
  - _ There have been abuses against minority shareholder interests.
- 1.1.6. The director election includes a proposal that would lengthen the term of office for directors (any increase without convincing rationale will result in a vote against). We are generally supportive of staggered boards as the perpetual renewal of an appropriate proportion of the board members secures an active succession planning.

- 1.1.7. The election of a candidate in a company with a unitary board structure results in (or continues) the dual role of CEO (Chief Executive Officer) and Chairperson of the board. This policy also applies in cases where the Chairperson / CEO is included in an election by slate. For companies who still have a combined Chairperson/CEO we strongly recommend appointment of an independent chair to enhance the balance of power. In exceptional circumstances, the vote recommendation can be evaluated on a CASE-BY-CASE basis when:
  - _ The company provides assurance that the Chairperson / CEO will only serve in the combined role on an interim basis (i.e. max. 2 years), with the intent of separating the roles within a reasonable time frame.
  - _ A favorable vote recommendation for a combined Chairperson / CEO can be considered, if the company provides adequate control mechanisms on the board (e.g., high overall level of board independence, high level of independence in the board's key committees, highly respected senior/lead independent director that fulfils our independence criteria as outlined in section 1).
  - _ The board Chairperson will not receive a level of compensation substantially higher than the company's executives nor assume executive functions.
  - _ A shareholder proposal has been submitted at the annual general meeting in favor of the appointment of a nominated chair upon single election supported by a qualified majority.

1.1.8. An executive board member (incl. the CEO) is proposed to be elected as supervisory board member without a reasonable cooling-off period following the respective national best-practices or – in cases where there is no national best-practice – of at least two years. A former CEO or executive board member is nominated for the position of Chairperson of the supervisory board. In markets such as Germany, where the general meeting only elects the supervisory board members, who in turn elect the Chairperson of the new supervisory board, DWS will generally vote AGAINST the election, unless the company has publicly confirmed prior to the general meeting that she / he will not become Chairperson of the board. The proposal can be evaluated on a CASE-BY-CASE basis if, e.g., the former CEO or CFO is proposed to be elected as the supervisory board's Chairperson for the first time after a reasonable cooling-off period, which corresponds to the respective national best-practices for corporate governance or – in cases where there is no national best-practice – of at least two years, or a shareholder proposal has been submitted at the annual general meeting in favour of the appointment with a qualified majority.

1.1.9. If the board does not have a nomination, remuneration, or audit committee, although national best practices for corporate governance stipulate, we would vote AGAINST the Chairperson of the board and the non-executive members.

1.1.10. If the independent directors do not constitute the majority in the board and in the key committees (remuneration, audit and/or risk, nomination, presiding), the vote recommendation is an AGAINST on the Chairperson of the board, however if the Chairperson of the board is not up for election then an AGAINST on non-independent directors serving on the key committees will be considered.

Executive Directors:

AGAINST, if one of the following applies:

- 1.1.11. Serious and permanent conflicts of interest exist.
- 1.1.12. The election of a candidate causes this candidate to hold more than three board seats in total (incl. the nominated position). This includes the executive position with the roles of CEO and Chairperson counting double. Internal board seats count as one as long as they are clearly highlighted.
Note: A Director's service on multiple closed-end fund boards within a fund complex are treated as service on a single board for the purpose of the proxy voting guidelines.
- 1.1.13. The CEO of a company assumes also a role as Chairperson of the Board at another company.

Non-Executive Directors:

AGAINST, if one of the following applies:

- 1.1.14. The candidate has potential conflicts of interest that have not been sufficiently disclosed by the company.
- 1.1.15. The election of a candidate causes the board to become insufficiently independent, diverse or balanced with regard to the main activities of the company and taking into consideration the respective country's best practice rules on corporate governance. Qualified, experienced and independent directors are mandatory for competent and diverse boards for an efficient decision making process and superior as well as, sustainable company performance. We understand diversity as a broader concept that encompasses gender, age, nationality, professional background, qualifications and tenure. Employee representatives are excluded from the independence calculation.

1.1.16. The election of a candidate results in a direct (up to two years) transition from executive to non-executive directorship: In especially warranted cases, executive directors with a long and proven track record can become non-executive directors, but not Chairperson of the board, if this change is in line with the national best practice for corporate governance.

1.1.17. A former executive director is nominated for a membership on the supervisory board when two or more former executive directors already serve on the same.

1.1.18. The candidate is a member of the audit, remuneration, governance or nomination committee, and the respective committee has made important decisions that contradict the best practice rules for corporate governance or interests of shareholders.

1.1.19. Nomination rights or special rights are exercised for the election proposal resulting in a disproportionate board representation of substantial shareholder, government, or founding family representatives.

1.1.20. The election of a candidate causes this candidate to hold more than five board seats or other comparable seats (incl. the nominated position). The role of a Chairperson and of an audit committee Chairperson is counted double. A CASE-BY-CASE evaluation applies, if a non-executive board member also holds supervisory board appointments of a quoted subsidiary.

1.1.21. Attendance at board meetings is not disclosed on an individual basis in the annual report or on the company's website (a model table can be found under section II.).

1.1.22. The candidate has attended fewer than 75 % of the board and audit / risk committee meetings in a given year without a satisfactory explanation for his / her absence disclosed in a clear and comprehensible form in the relevant proxy filings. Satisfactory explanation will be understood as any health issues or family incidents.

1.2. Discharge of Directors

AGAINST, in the case of:

1.2.1. Pending action against a director e.g.,
_ appeal against financial statements,
_ insider trading,
_ bribery,
_ fraud,
_ and other illegal actions.

1.2.2. Criminal conviction or civil action against a director.

1.2.3. Doubts on the accuracy of the company's disclosure of material information.

1.2.4. Well-founded shareholder proposals for the dismissal of a director.

1.2.5. Any records of abuses against minority shareholders' interests.

1.2.6. We vote on a CASE-BY-CASE basis when the company reported significant and repeated failure to act in accordance with important Responsible Investment (RI) or Environmental Social and Governance (ESG) standards (e.g. for industrials: the CDP, for financial industry: UN PRI), in particular the frameworks and standards developed by the United Nations (i.e. UN Global Compact Principles) and OECD (Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development) Guidelines for Multinationals. When evaluating the ESG profile of a company, we take a closer look at the different available ESG disclosure and seek ways to actively engage with companies who contravene international standards or failed to adequately integrate financially relevant ESG issues in their strategy. We may also file shareholder resolutions advocating for enhanced ESG disclosure and management.

1.2.7. The discharge of directors is carried out on a block basis and the discharge of at least one of the directors is called into question.

Executive Directors:

AGAINST, in the case of:

- 1.2.8. Serious deficiencies in the management of the company:
  - _ Deficient risk control and internal auditing procedures
  - _ Due-diligence violations or willful misconduct.
- 1.2.9. Sustained poor performance relative to industry peers respectively competitors:
  - _ Negative company results for three consecutive years, where exceptions for early stage (up to five years) companies will be considered.
  - _ Significant misjudgment in large-scale investments.
  - _ Repeated failure to achieve stated company targets, also in comparison to peer group.
- 1.2.10. Executive management refuses to implement a shareholder proposal that has been approved in a preceding general meeting.

Non-Executive Directors:

AGAINST, in the case of:

- 1.2.11. Clear deficiencies in the monitoring of the company through neglect of the obligatory supervisory duties of management.
- 1.2.12. Concerns that the board has not acted in the best interest of shareholders.
- 1.2.13. Attendance at board meetings is not disclosed on an individual basis in the annual report or on the company's website.
- 1.2.14. No information is made available in the annual report or on the company's website who is the board member responsible for ESG matters.

- 1.2.15. Executive as well as non-executive remuneration is not disclosed on an individual basis, i.e. by name.
- 1.2.16. No reasonable age limits are set and disclosed in the annual report or the company's website for executive and non-executive directors. We appreciate a degree of relevant experience in the boards as long as the boards also ensure that regular board refreshment measures are in place and the overall diversity is secured.
- 1.2.17. The curriculum vitae of each executive and non-executive director is not permanently published on the company's website and does not state the year the individual was first appointed, information about the qualification, the year of birth and any mandates (incl. external listed companies, internal mandates, mandates also related to other than commercially oriented organizations, i.e. NGOs, NPOs).
- 1.2.18. The Articles of Association are not available on the company's website.
- 1.2.19. Additional board mandates acquired during the term that then result in a total number of mandates exceeding five.
- 1.2.20. We generally expect the boards to review their performance internally on an annual basis and to assess their efficiency on a regular basis externally (i.e. every three years). We furthermore expect a transparent and appropriate reporting in the corporate governance section of the annual report.
- 1.2.21. The remuneration system is not regularly (at least every four years) or in case of major changes brought up for voting at the AGM.

1.3. Board Remuneration

Generally AGAINST, if:

- 1.3.1. The remuneration system is not geared to the sustainable long-term success of the company, incentivizes disproportionate and unreasonable risk taking is substantially out of line with a relevant peer group, resulting in an insufficient and/or inadequate alignment with the interests of shareholders.
- 1.3.2. The system of performance measurement and remuneration is not transparent, comprehensible and does not demonstrate how strategic objectives are factored in.
- 1.3.3. The remuneration system is changed without an appropriate and notable improvement of its success-related components.
- 1.3.4. The structure of the compensation scheme does not comply with internationally recognized best practice.
- 1.3.5. The information provided to shareholders on the ratification of compensation schemes or compensation reports is neither sufficient nor comprehensible enough to allow shareholders to easily assess and evaluate the principles, structure and various components of the compensation scheme.
- 1.3.6. The proposals bundle compensation for both non-executive and executive directors into a single resolution.
- 1.3.7. Variable compensation is substantially linked to dividend payments.
- 1.3.8. Variable compensation is not geared to medium- and long-term success criteria and a relevant sector comparison over an appropriate medium timescale (i.e. three years).

- 1.3.9. The Remuneration system includes any disproportionate/excessive special payment clauses that are inappropriate compared to the executives' performance, i.e. Golden Parachutes, Golden Handshakes, Sign-on Bonuses etc.

Executive Directors:

Generally AGAINST if:

- 1.3.10. Remuneration paid to management is not in line with performance, disproportionate, or incommensurate in relation to that of comparable businesses.
- 1.3.11. No convincing bonus malus system is in place that entitles the company to withhold or reduce the payment of variable compensation or the system does not affect the respective board members for at least three years after their retirement.
- 1.3.12. No system is in place that entitles the company to recover any sums already paid (e.g. claw-back-system). Deviations are possible wherever the company provides a reasonable explanation why a claw-back was not implemented.
- 1.3.13. The individual directors' remuneration components are not disclosed in detail and by name (salary, short and long-term bonuses, options and pension programs, other benefits including hiring bonuses or severance payments as well as payments from allied companies).
- 1.3.14. The key performance indicators that influence and are used to calculate short term and long term variable compensation are not disclosed.
- 1.3.15. Key performance indicators or parameters that influence variable compensation are retrospectively adjusted (backdating).

- 1.3.16. The remuneration system allows the use of adjusted operating performance measures.
- 1.3.17. Allotments and exercise terms of stock option plans or similar incentives are not disclosed.
- 1.3.18. The performance criteria for reaching the exercise target of stock options plans are strongly tied to the development of the share price.
- 1.3.19. The first exercise date for option programs is earlier than three years.
- 1.3.20. Stock option plans result in an equity dilution of more than 10% of the actually issued share capital.
- 1.3.21. Executive directors do not hold a direct equity stake in the company (on a CASE-BY-CASE basis).

Non-Executive Directors:

Generally AGAINST if:

- 1.3.22. Remuneration is inadequate or disproportionate in relation to that of a relevant peer group.
- 1.3.23. Remuneration is not comprehensively disclosed with its constituent components.
- 1.3.24. The variable compensation component accounts for substantially more than 50% of total remuneration.
- 1.3.25. Members of the audit and the risk committees receive any additional performance related compensation, which is not already covered by her/his existing remuneration plan.
- 1.3.26. The remuneration committee has substantial competences for setting or altering the compensation schemes without approval of the general meeting.

2. Audit-related Agenda Items

2.1. Ratification of Audit Reports

AGAINST, if one of the following applies:

- 2.1.1. The company faces serious legal action (regarding the correctness of the accounts or other illegal activities).
- 2.1.2. The information provided to shareholders is insufficient according to generally accepted accounting principles and international best practice for corporate governance, e.g.:
  - _ There are material doubts concerning the quality, credibility and completeness of the available information.
  - _ The company does not respond appropriately to legitimate claims for additional information on the accounts.
- 2.1.3. There are substantial concerns about key audit procedures.

2.2. Appointment and Remuneration of the Auditor

AGAINST, if one of the following applies:

- 2.2.1. There are material doubts concerning the accuracy of the audit report (e.g., lawsuits or investigations).
- 2.2.2. There are serious concerns about the procedures applied by the auditor.
- 2.2.3. The audit report admits serious mistakes, yet the same auditor is nominated for reappointment at annual general meetings.
- 2.2.4. The name of the audit firm and the responsible lead audit partner is not made public.

- 2.2.5. The disclosure of various advisory services, which have also been performed by the auditor, is insufficient for judging the auditor's independence.

3. Share Capital and Business Related

Capital measures, i.e. equity issuances and share repurchases are in the interest of shareholders as long as they strengthen the long-term success of the company. However, to evaluate this, companies need to provide adequate information to shareholders about their financing strategies. Thus, we will generally support either a proposal for equity issuances OR share repurchases but not both unless both proposals are adequately reasoned.

- 3.2.7. The cumulative equity issuances without subscription rights (historical and across instruments) exceed the maximum level specified in a respective country's best practices for corporate governance or 20% of the company's nominal capital. - b) Contributions in kind that exceed 10% of outstanding share capital.
- 3.2.8. The combined equity issuance of all equity instruments with subscription rights exceeds 40% of the outstanding share capital or the prevailing maximum threshold as stipulated by best practice rules for corporate governance in the respective country. Exceeding either of the two thresholds will be judged on a CASE-BY-CASE basis<sup>4</sup>, provided that the subscription rights are actively tradable in the market.

- 5.2.5. Conflicts of interest exist: Incumbents with access to non-public information disproportionately or inappropriately benefit from the transaction compared to shareholders who have no access to such information. On a CASE-BY-CASE basis, DWS will consider whether any special interests have influenced directors and officers to support or recommend the merger or acquisition.
- 5.2.6. The prevailing legislation and rules at the place of business or corporate governance of the newly combined entity significantly diminish the rights of shareholders.
- 5.2.7. On a CASE-BY-CASE basis, if a company engages in an acquisition and its management does not have a favorable track record of successfully integrating acquisitions.

8. Country-specific Application

8.1 Japan

We acknowledge what has been achieved in the last couple of years in the corporate governance developments in Japan and support the progress, which has been made in that regard, in particular with the introduction of the Corporate Governance and Stewardship codes. We aspire to be in a constructive dialogue with our investees and to act as their steering partner to drive further developments in the corporate governance area.

With reference to our policy on board composition, we expect companies, which define the role of the board to have a supervisory function instead of an executive function, to have at least two outside directors and strongly encourage them to ensure that at least 1/3 of the members in their boards are considered independent.

With reference to our policy of defining independence, outlined earlier in this document, in Japan as significant shareholders we will consider those who are in the top ten shareholders, even if their holding represents a share of less than 10%, mainly due to the market practice in Japan for business partners to own a certain percentage of each other's shares as cross shareholders.

With reference to our policy on the separation of the CEO and Chairperson roles and responsibilities, we strongly encourage our Japanese investees to disclose the member, who chairs the board as well as the member, who is considered to chair the company, the so called "Kaicho", if these roles are separated.

We also expect and foster our investees in Japan to establish the relevant formal committees- nomination, remuneration and audit.
